Issue 8 · 24 Feb - 2 Mar 2018

This week's Emmerdale sees the affair between Bob and Laurel well and truly on – and the drama is coming thick and fast.

Some think it's a bit quick for Laurel to move on after Ashley's death – though while this may not be the best decision of her life, isn't that the point?

One of the strongest things about soaps is the fact that – unlike a film or series – we spend years with these people, watching them go through good times and bad. We understand why they do what they do, even if we don't always agree with it.

"Bob & Laurel's affair is well and truly on!"

Poor Laurel is lonely and grieving. She spent so much time and effort caring for her late husband, only for him to now be gone forever. Okay, she's doing a terrible thing – but is it more terrible than hitting the bottle again, or taking her frustrations out on the kids? So let Laurel do what she has to – we know we'll all be there for her on the other side!

Brenda uncovers Bob & Laurel's fling?

Brenda has somehow found it in herself to forgive
Bob for his cheating

Laurel suffers a broken arm when Jimmy's car backs into her

A BRUSH WITH DEATH SEES BOB AND LAUREL FINALLY REVEAL THEIR LOVE FOR EACH OTHER – BUT AT WHAT PRICE?

Laurel and Bob are thrown back into each other's arms by a terrible accident this week – and finally admit their true feelings to one another. But just as they're getting passionate, the worst possible person is about to walk in on them...

"The moment they come together is like fireworks going off between Laurel and Bob," explains Charlotte Bellamy, who plays her. "But neither realises that Brenda is coming up the path towards the house and is about to arrive at the open front door!"

Laurel has been trying to resist her attraction to Bob, which began with a heart-to-heart and led to the two of them falling into bed together. Meanwhile, Brenda has reconciled with Bob after leaving him when she discovered he'd slept with someone else – though she remains unaware of the other woman's identity. But it seems both Laurel and Bob have been fooling themselves.

"Sleeping together was an impulse – they were finding comfort in each other," sighs Charlotte. "Since then, Laurel has tried to put it behind her, because Bob's taken and she doesn't want to hurt anyone. She feels rotten about what she did to Brenda – it's the last thing you'd expect someone like Laurel to do. But it's hard to put your feelings aside when the person you have feelings for lives over the road!"

The pair's rekindled passion comes after an emotional week for Laurel. It's discovered that the window designed in memory of Laurel's late husband Ashley has been shattered, leaving her distraught. It's not long before Ashley's good mate Bob turns up to help Laurel fix it – which is when he realises that they are a great deal more than just good friends.

"The broken window is very upsetting for Laurel, and Bob comes to her rescue," shares Charlotte. "He cares very much about how she feels because she's becoming more and more important to him – and the audience will come to realise that what happened between them was more than a one-night stand. Bob can't cope with his feelings at this point, though, and ends up rushing off..."

FROM PREVIOUS PAGE

Laurel remains preoccupied throughout the week – but a shocking accident makes her finally confront her feelings.

“Laurel is knocked over by Jimmy’s car while he’s reversing,” exclaims Charlotte. “While it’s only a minor collision, Bob doesn’t realise that – he actually thinks she’s dead! After he finds out it’s only a broken arm, it hits home just how much he’s been worried about Laurel – so when he goes round to see her, he needs to express how he’s really feeling.”

It turns out that Laurel feels exactly the same – and soon both of them are forced to acknowledge the reality of their romantic predicament.

“Bob has been a breath of fresh air for Laurel,” admits Charlotte. “Having spent the past two years being a carer for Ashley, she’s brought alive by finding somebody who makes her laugh, and who has the energy Bob does. He makes her feel good, and Laurel hasn’t felt good about herself for a long time. But she’s already said – and she means it with all her heart – that she doesn’t want to break up a family.”

However, with clueless Brenda striding towards her partner and his secret lover, set to walk in on them at any second, Laurel may be unable to prevent these crushing consequences. How will Bob and Laurel deal with their burgeoning feelings if Brenda becomes the first casualty?

“Bob has been a breath of fresh air for Laurel – he makes her laugh”

“If Laurel was my friend, I’d say, ‘Don’t do it!’”

Charlotte warns her alter ego off a married man...

What kind of response have you had regarding Bob and Laurel so far?

I’ve had a few, “What are you doing?!” kind of remarks, though it’s all quite restrained at the moment. Of course people would wonder why Laurel’s doing this, but I understand why this path has been chosen for her. After being Florence Nightingale and nursing someone for so long, you’d need to spice it up a bit.

Do you think Bob and Laurel would make a good couple, if it came to that?

I think they would. But it’s hard, isn’t it? It’s sometimes difficult to see your character with someone else. Time will tell, and I think the audience will let us know whether they like it or not. But I do think Bob and Laurel have potential together.

Inside Soap interviewed John Middleton, aka Ashley, in a recent issue, and he gave Bob and Laurel his blessing. Is that nice to know?

The smashed window is like a dagger to the heart for Ashley's loved ones

That's a lovely thing for John to say! I think he's probably quite pleased that Laurel's not with a rogue or a 25-year-old hunk – not that Bob's not a hunk, of course! Bob is a lovely character and he's adored by the public, so I think John probably reckons Laurel is in safe hands.

What advice would you give Laurel if you were her friend?

I'd say, "Don't do it!". What friend would offer advice like, "Go on, break up a family..."? You just wouldn't, would you? But this is when stories in soap become interesting. Even when you know something is wrong, you still kind of want it to happen, and that's when plots flourish. It's good to have a clash of opinions!

Do you think Laurel would be able to cope if everything went wrong?

She's got her dad Doug there, and he's a huge support, along with the kids. So while the audience might always wonder if Laurel will turn to the bottle again, I think that she'd ultimately turn to her family...

Bethany on the attack!

SHE'S ARRESTED AFTER LOSING IT WITH A PUNTER AT THE CLUB...

Traumatised Bethany lashes out at a rowdy stag who attempts to grope her this week – and ends up getting arrested!

The troubled girl returns to the lap-dancing club after leaving her job at Audrey's salon in a huff. And with a new owner in charge at Tassels, Bethany hopes her career could be back on track. But things go horribly wrong on day one...

"The club has changed from what it was like when Lulu was running it," shares Lucy Fallon, who plays Bethany. "Bethany notices the girls are wearing much skimpier outfits – and when the manager hands her one of the bikinis, Bethany says she has her own clothes to wear. She still wants to call the shots, but senses that it's not the same place it was."

As the night progresses, Bethany's fears are borne out in dramatic fashion, when a group of unruly lads from a stag party arrive to celebrate their pal's upcoming wedding.

"The new owner makes Bethany go and dance for the group, and they keep trying to grab her," reveals Lucy. "When she worked for Lulu, there was a no-touching policy, but no one tells them to stop. The men are getting very close, and Bethany starts to panic."

It's hardly surprising, given the horrific ordeal that Bethany endured at the hands of evil Nathan and his gang of sexual abusers. And as the worrying situation escalates, things soon take a violent turn.

"Bethany has a panic attack and a flashback to when she was with Nathan and his gang

– all she can see in her head is Nathan's face," explains Lucy. "Through pure instinct, she grabs a bottle and smashes it, then glasses part of her journey. She was doing it because she felt as if she was in control – and now she knows she wasn't."

So, as Bethany puts herself in more danger and potentially earns herself a criminal record, does yet more trauma lie in store for the fragile lass?

Craig's symptoms get worse

It's a difficult week for Craig, as his guilt over girlfriend Bethany's issues exacerbates his OCD symptoms.

Craig has been covering up his condition for months, but when his sweetheart endures another horrible episode, he can't control his behaviour. And as he worries that mum Beth might be close to rumbling his secret, Craig is keen to move out of the flat – so after Kate offers him Luke's old room, he jumps at the chance.

Craig knows he has to keep away from Beth, who is getting increasingly worried about his anxiety and is confused when he tells her he's moving out. But living with Kate might not be the escape he wants, as she soon notices him displaying some strange behaviour and wonders what's going on. Can the lad confide in Kate and seek help for his OCD?

one of the men with it! She doesn't have time to think about it – but the next thing she knows, he's bleeding and the police have been called."

At the police station, Bethany's worried mum Sarah arrives and is horrified to find out her daughter has been charged with GBH. It's clear Bethany is in turmoil and needs help to come to terms with the horrifying things that have happened to her.

"Bethany is at a low point," says Lucy. "Sarah suggests she go for more counselling, but Bethany doesn't see how it will help her. Without a doubt, what's happened has changed her life forever, and the lap-dancing chapter is another

Hayley joins Martin as he spends the day with Arthur and Hope

Martin's bond with newcomer Hayley looks set to turn romantic this week – but as he confronts life after Stacey, she sees red over his behaviour!

Viewers know that Hayley has an ulterior motive – so as she manages to drive Stacey and Martin even further apart, what exactly is her plan?

“As far as Martin is concerned, his marriage to Stacey is over, so he doesn't think there's anything wrong in exploring where things might lead with someone else,” says our Walford source. “Martin is clearly intrigued by Hayley, but he is also revelling in the fact that he's getting attention from a new woman. If that serves to make Stacey jealous, then it's just a bonus for him!”

With her and Martin's recent troubles, Stacey is very wary about having anything to do with her estranged husband – though she reluctantly agrees to him looking after the kids for the day, on the strict condition that he brings them home at the agreed time. But although Martin is keen to spend quality time with Arthur and Hope, he uses the opportunity to meet up with Hayley as well.

The trouble starts when Hayley uses her influence on Martin to keep the kids out for longer than agreed. And when the children don't arrive home, Stacey begins to panic and frantically calls Martin to find out what's going on! However, devious Hayley persuades Martin to ignore the worried messages from Stacey.

“It's clear Hayley is sinking her claws into Martin, and he is more than happy to let down his guard with her,” our snitch tells us. “But what is Hayley's ulterior motive? When we first witnessed her hanging about the Square, she was clearly spying on Martin – and it seems someone has tasked her with collecting evidence against him. But if there is a plot to discredit Martin, who could be behind it? Certainly

Is Martin being manipulated by enigmatic Hayley?

If there is a plot to discredit Martin, who could be behind it?”

not Stacey, who is beside herself with worry when her kids don't come home..."

Martin isn't at all bothered by Stacey's panicky messages – yet it seems his indifference has backfired on him when Stacey decides that it's time to take matters up a notch. Until now, both parties have stopped short of involving lawyers in their fight, though that could be about to change.

"We all know that it doesn't take much for Stacey to fly off the handle – she's hardly known for her patience!" sighs our spy. "She's itching for an excuse to have a fight with Martin, and he may well have given her just the ammunition she needs! Although everyone around Stacey keeps telling her that she needs to calm the situation down for the sake of the kids, she's very stubborn by nature. It looks as if this already-messy divorce is on the verge of escalating to the next level..."

Will Stacey and Martin be able to come to a mutual understanding and put their children's needs first – or have things already gone way too far to find a compromise?

Tom Spilsbury

WHAT ARE MARTIN'S RIGHTS?

We spoke to Tracey Moloney, head of the Co-op Legal Services, to ask her what Martin's legal position is regarding Stacey's three children...

HOPE

As Martin is Hope's biological dad, and has looked after her since birth, things are relatively simple.

"Martin has clear parental responsibility for Hope," says Tracey, "which means he is entitled to make decisions about her education, health and religious upbringing in addition to her day-to-day care. Therefore, Martin can apply to the court for shared contact for Hope without permission."

LILY & ARTHUR

However, things are not so clear when it comes to Stacey's other daughter and son. Lily is Stacey's child by Whitney's brother Ryan Malloy, but Martin has been her father figure for the past few years. Meanwhile, Arthur is Kush's son, but has been brought up by Martin since birth...

"Martin does not have parental responsibility for Lily," Tracey tells us. "But what isn't clear is if he currently has parental responsibility for Arthur. Provided Arthur's biological father, Kush, gives his consent, then a parental responsibility agreement could be entered into."

But what if, as Martin and Stacey's split is made official, Kush sides with Stacey over Arthur? Can Martin still make an application to the court?

"The court is likely to grant permission for an application for shared contact, as the children live with Martin and he is providing care for them. Kush, who lives locally and has contact, could object to this, but his position is compromised as he doesn't have any real input into Arthur's care, having given verbal consent for Martin to look after him."

Sean Wilson begins filming ahead of Corrie's sexual assault plot...

CAN MARTIN SAVE DAVID?

The horror of David Platt's rape ordeal will bring his father Martin racing to his rescue, in scenes that will see Gail's son looking a shadow of the man he once was.

Our snaps show returning star Sean Wilson, who is reprising the role of Martin after 13 years away, filming on location with Jack P Shepherd, aka David – in what is believed to be the aftermath of David's brutal assault at the hands of Josh.

"They appear to be locked in an emotional heart-to-heart as gloomy David stares out of a window with a haunted expression – probably wishing the ground would swallow him up," reports our Corrie spy from the set. "Whether Martin knows about his boy's attack at this point remains to be seen, but judging by David's defensive manner, it looks as if Martin might struggle to get through to him."

The seeds are already being sown on screen for David's horror, as he continues to grow pally with newcomer mechanic Josh. The pair are currently training together for a charity boxing match due to take place on the cobbles – and rumour has it that they'll also team up in a bid to hunt down Luke Britton's falsely suspected killers, the Parker brothers.

But all the while, David is completely unaware what Josh is really capable of. They'll eventually end up on a lads' night out together in town, with Josh reportedly spiking David's drink before taking him back to his flat.

"Stories of this nature are always heavily publicised so that viewers know what to expect when they tune in," insists our mole. "Corrie will no doubt be working with experts and charities to make sure David's ordeal is portrayed sensitively and accurately."

The plot is due to begin unfolding on screen towards the end of March.

SONS OF ANARCHY!

Michelle's boy Ryan to join her and Ali on the Street...

Just as Michelle comes to terms with the reappearance of her biological son Ali, her other lad Ryan will also turn up on the cobbles!

But who is he, you ask? And why does Michelle have two sons the same age who aren't a pair of twins? Let us jog your memories...

Back in 2008, a complicated plot saw Michelle learn that Ryan – played by actor Ben Thompson – wasn't actually her son, since a hospital mix-up had resulted in him being swapped at birth and handed to her instead of Ali (formerly known as Alex).

The truth later came out, with Michelle eventually meeting Ali. Their reunion was rocky to say the least, and the two boys didn't get on. After Michelle and Ali parted ways, he was barely mentioned again, with Ryan – later played by Sol Heras – being treated as Michelle's son.

So with Ryan also set to come back into Michelle's life, are the three of them on a collision course for the mother of all dramas?

"You can bet Carla Connor's bottomless bank account on it!" exclaims our cobbles insider. "If Ali loathes Michelle now, imagine how he'll feel when Ryan returns to the mix. She is going to have her work cut out ensuring both boys behave themselves..."

There's no word on Sol's return, or whether a new face will be playing Ryan. Watch this space!

But will their big day end in heartbreak?

HOLLYOAKS

It looks as though teenage lovers Prince and Lily will make it to the altar, judging by these dreamy pics of their forthcoming wedding. But with fickle fate having conspired against them all along, will the student sweethearts end the big day as man and wife?

"It's been a rocky road for the two of them, what with Prince bedding Lily's pal Peri and her pretending to be pregnant with his baby!" our Hollyoaks informant reminds us. "However, as their wedding day dawns, Prince and Lily are a picture of happiness. She looks dazzling in a prom-style dress fit for a princess – and the handsome groom doesn't scrub up badly, either!"

Stars Malique Thompson-Dwyer and Lauren McQueen were recently spotted filming the scenes outside a church in Liverpool, where their characters were witnessed running into each other's arms. But the one thing that's not certain is if the pair end up saying "I do"... With Lily's Auntie Diane being no fan of Prince, and his feisty mum Goldie in no hurry to see her little boy married off, will the day go without a hitch? Or will true love conquer all in the end?

Eileen under fire!

AS PHELAN CONFRONTS A CRISIS, WILL LIZ STAND BY HER FRIEND?

Eileen tries to hold her nerve when it comes to Phelan this week – as she mounts a campaign to prove that her husband is a good man.

Phelan's name is mud following Anna's trial, with Tim even moving his family away from Weatherfield to avoid him. And now the builder and his daughter Nicola have fallen out, Eileen is seriously rattled and desperate to help her hubby fix the relationship. Can she convince their neighbours that Phelan isn't a monster?

"It's an uphill battle for Eileen – she's about the only person who has any time for him at all," shares our cobbles snitch. "But Phelan seems so down about the row with Nicola and the fact that he'll never get to know his grandson. Eileen is terribly worried, and hopes she can help smooth things out between them – she doesn't know the real reason Nicola hates her dad."

As Eileen heads to the hospital to visit her pregnant stepdaughter, she's certain she can broker peace between them. Yet Nicola won't give an inch – instead, she tries to make Eileen see that she's married to a dangerous man, and that she needs to get out quick.

However, Eileen is blinded by love and finds it hard to listen.

Fortunately for the embattled wife, she does have someone to lean on as times get harder – her best mate Liz. Although they've fought, and Liz has made it clear that she doesn't trust Phelan, Eileen knows that her friend wants the best for her. The two women reconcile, and to cheer up her pal, Liz agrees to give Phelan another chance by throwing a 'Getting To Know Pat' party.

"It means the world to Eileen that Liz is willing to do this for

Chas is pregnant with Paddy's baby!

BUT ARE THEY READY TO BE PARENTS?

EMMERDALE | ITV TUESDAY

Paddy and Chas have a choice to make – but answers won't come easily

Chas and Paddy face a big decision this week, following the stunning news that Chas has fallen pregnant.

Worried Chas confided in her mum Faith about the baby bombshell, but didn't realise that Paddy had overheard the dramatic admission. He's in a state of shock at the idea of impending fatherhood, and both of them have complicated emotions about the baby. What will they decide to do?

"Chas feels as though having this baby would be a big mistake," says our Dales insider. "It's been a complete surprise, and one that will change both their lives as well as their relationship. She wants to have a termination, and after they discuss it, Paddy agrees. But the truth is that he's more conflicted than he's letting on."

While he's never been a biological father, Paddy loves being a dad to Leo and Aaron. Those boys are his world, and the idea of having a child with Chas is exciting. However, he's conscious that this is her body, and he wouldn't want Chas to do anything she didn't want to. Still, he wonders what their future might be like if Chas could conquer her doubts and embrace the idea of becoming a mother again.

It doesn't take long for news of Paddy's conflict to reach his concerned girlfriend. Chas is saddened to discover he was putting on a brave face for her, and that Paddy really wants them to have this baby. He's touched when she approaches him and asks to talk about the situation again – but following a deep conversation, she's forced to admit that she still wants to end the pregnancy.

"Paddy's feelings matter to Chas, but she can't have a baby just to please him," sighs our mole. "Now she's worried that he's going to resent her having a termination. It could destroy their relationship."

Troubled Priya has a meltdown while looking after the Sharma kids this week – leaving a question mark over her suitability to care for children.

Under pressure and feeling unable to cope, Priya reaches breaking point while trying to get daughter Amba and niece Eliza to eat their dinner. In a fit of anger, she hurls a plate against the wall, and the youngsters are terrified by her frightening behaviour.

Her dad Rishi walks in as the commotion is happening, and can't believe his daughter's behaviour, though he reassures Priya that he understands why she lost her temper. Nevertheless, Rishi is concerned about Priya, especially given her battle with anorexia and her delicate temperament.

He tries to soothe his daughter by telling her that Paddy tries to be supportive of Chas as she struggles with morning sickness, but when she ends up snapping at him, the pair are clearly walking on eggshells around each other. For Chas, motherhood hasn't been a bed of roses – she and son Aaron had to work hard to form a bond, and she feels guilty about what he went through at the hands of her vile ex-husband Gordon. In Chas' mind, she only became a good mum once Aaron was much older, and she's worried about what bringing a baby into the world might mean.

Will Chas stand by her decision – or will Paddy persuade her a baby would make their lives complete?

Chemistry between Mel and Jack!

THEY'RE DRAWN TOGETHER AS SHE PREPARES TO REOPEN THE CLUB...

History repeats itself for Jack this week, as he becomes enamoured of an ambitious blonde who's taking charge of Walford's number one nightclub.

Like his late wife Ronnie before her, Mel Owen has big plans for the club, and she's relaunching it this week with son Hunter by her side. But when she runs into trouble, Jack offers to help, and there's clearly an attraction...

"The club holds lots of memories for both Mel and Jack," says our Walford whisperer. "It was her dead husband Steve's business, as well as tragic Ronnie's. It's high time it reopened, and Mel believes she can make a big success of it in Steve's memory with her son's help. But they have a lot to learn about running a club nowadays."

Jack steps in when Mel has trouble courtesy of the building's dodgy alarm system. She's at her wits' end with the equipment, but Jack knows how to fix it. At first, she doesn't want to accept assistance, yet Jack soon makes her see how silly it is not to allow him to show her the ropes.

Jack is being neighbourly, but Hunter is not impressed at all by this new bloke sniffing around his mum. With Mel preparing to open, Jack continues to make his presence known – and when Mel happily accepts his offer of help again, Hunter wants to warn him off. Although the teen is being pretty rude to him, Jack doesn't take it personally as he knows how tough things must be for Hunter, having just found out the truth about his lost father. So the kindly dad meets anger with compassion, and his actions impress Mel no end.

"They are opening the club on the anniversary of Steve's fiery death, and that brings up difficult emotions for Mel and Hunter," shares our spy.

"Jack talks to Hunter about grief and shares his own story of loss and heartbreak. Jack wants Hunter to know that he's there to listen if the lad needs to talk – though Hunter can't bring himself to open up to a man so clearly interested in his mum."

However, Mel has more than Jack to worry about when they gather outside the club to unveil the new sign. She's excited to make her mark on the Square, but as the sign is revealed, Mel's left horrified. Who has stolen her thunder?

Mel might have a love rival...

While Jack and Mel are flirting up a storm, there's another single lady in the Square who may well want a slice of the Branning action: Honey.

There were whispers about the closeness between Jack and Honey in the past, and Roxy even falsely accused them of betraying Ronnie. Nothing happened back then, but since she threw out cheating fiancé Billy, Honey is on the market – and Jack is a very eligible bachelor.

Although Jack has previously gone for strong-minded businesswomen, Honey is loving, kind and very funny – just what lonely Jack needs. She would also be a wonderful influence on his vulnerable children, all of whom already adore her. But will Honey decide to make a move on Jack now that she's free to do so? Or is Mel destined to be the former police officer's next love?

Darren & Mandy caught out?

Secret lovers Mandy and Darren can't keep their hands off each other this week – and end up having an illicit night of passion in the Bean!

The pair have been sneaking around behind their partners' backs for weeks, and although they recently vowed to put a stop to the affair, it seems they just can't control their urges. And with nowhere else to meet in secret, they swipe the keys to Esther's coffee shop and arrange a naughty liaison...

"Mandy and Darren overhear Esther talking about closing the Bean, and their ears prick up," explains Sarah Jayne Dunn, who plays Mandy. "They realise it's going to be empty that night, and they have a chat about how they can't stop thinking about each other. So they arrange to meet up for this dangerous liaison – and they definitely make the most of having the empty coffee shop to themselves!"

While the pair are carrying on like randy teenagers, their oblivious other halves have no idea that they're playing away. Nancy is blithely carrying on as normal, while Luke has finally settled down, now that his secrets are out in the open and Mandy has forgiven him. He even wants them to get their own place with kids Ollie and Ella so they can be a proper family.

"Mandy feels torn about the move," Sarah tells us. "All she's ever wanted is a perfect family unit, so it's ironic that now she's getting that, she's the one disrupting it with an affair. The fact that she has these feelings for Darren is making her question her

Luke has no idea that he's far from Mandy's one and only

Darren slips away so that he can be with Mandy whole relationship with Luke – and she wonders whether getting their own place is the right thing to do. It's just a mess.”

Luke is certainly the last thing on Mandy's mind as she and Darren sneak off for their saucy night. But after having their fun, the pair fall asleep – and when they wake up the following morning, they're mortified to realise they've spent the whole night there! So, are they about to get caught out as they sneak home to Nancy and Luke?

“Mandy would feel awful if that happened,” sighs Sarah. “This isn't at all in her nature – she's always loved men, but she's never really been a cheat. So I think she'd be devastated if they got caught out – a lot of people would get hurt.”

As Darren and Mandy do the walk of shame home, how will they talk their way out of this?

Are Zeedan's actions the kiss for death for his and Leanne's friendship?

CORONATION STREET | ITV FRIDAY

Get off, Zeedan!

LEANNE REJECTS HIS ADVANCES...

This is the mortifying moment when Zeedan tries to move on from his wife Rana's affair – by lunging in for a snog with Leanne! It's awkward to say the least, given that Leanne was once on the verge of becoming Zeedan's stepmum before his father Kal died...

"The horrified look on Leanne's face says it all, and Zee is left under no illusion as to how she feels about it," cringes our Corrie insider. "He is clearly troubled in the wake of Rana's betrayal, and isn't in control of his emotions."

Having had a few weeks to process the fact that his wife

Rana was cheating with their good friend Kate, devastated Zeedan is still struggling – especially now her parents are bankrolling his catering business on the proviso that they stay married for a year.

However, their grubby offer is doing little to paper over the cracks as Zee persists with numbing his pain by drinking, while continuing his mission to make Rana's life a misery.

His commitment to that endeavour is stronger than ever this week, after he hears Phelan telling Alya and Kate that they need to find a new tenant. Zeedan suggests to Sophie that she should throw her hat in the ring, knowing the idea of Kate and Sophie living together will hurt Rana.

Much to Kate's chagrin, the deal is done (see p38 for more on that story) – and spiteful

Fiz returns...

...AS SPARKS FLY BETWEEN TYRONE AND GEMMA!

The seeds are sown for a shocking new love triangle in Weatherfield this week, as Tyrone strikes up an unexpected bond with Gemma!

While his wife Fiz has been away visiting her mum Cilla, Ty has been busy juggling work with looking after their children Hope and Ruby, with help from the likes of Sean and Chesney.

However, after Chesney ropes in his pal Gemma to help him mind the girls this week, Ty doesn't react well – blasting Fiz's brother for leaving the little ones alone with her. But once Tyrone sees how much of a natural Gemma is with Hope and Ruby, he softens – and as he goes to thank her, the pair share a moment, just as Fiz returns to the Street!

The spark between Tyrone and Gemma is very quickly extinguished, and he returns home with Fiz to catch up on everything that's gone on while she's been away. However, as Tyrone chooses to lie to Fiz and insists that everything has been fine, he neglects to tell her that Hope has accused Ruby of playing up again. Could it come back to haunt the hapless fella if the truth spills out into the open?

And with rumours indicating that Tyrone will end up doing the dirty on Fiz with Gemma, is a spring fling on the cards for the unlikely couple?

Laura-Jayne Tyler

Zeedan wastes no time in telling Rana. But is his cruel treatment just a smokescreen to cover up the fact that he is lost without her?

"Deep down, Zeedan is still very much in love with Rana," insists our source. "He's choosing to lash out at her because he can, not because he's taking any real pleasure from it."

Heartbroken by his situation, Zeedan confides in Leanne and admits that his feelings for Rana never went away. Speaking as a friend, Leanne tells him that he will eventually find love again – and seeing how distraught he is, she agrees to stay for dinner.

However, Zeedan misreads her kindness for more – and that's when he plants an uninvited kiss on her! His advances are not well-received, as Leanne recoils instantly and flees the Nazir household, with Zeedan chasing after her.

Will he manage to convince her that he made a mistake, or has Zee ruined one of the few meaningful relationships he has left?

THE FAMILY FINALLY STAND UP TO AIDAN...

Linda Carter takes matters into her own hands this week, as she refuses to let her family be pushed around by brute Aidan any longer!

She and landlord hubby Mick are shocked after discovering some suspicious activity going on in the Vic. And of course, it doesn't take long for Mick to work out who the culprit is...

"Mick takes pride in the fact that the Vic is a family pub, so he's furious to find out that it's being used by low-life scum to deal drugs in the toilets," says our Square snitch. "He quickly nips it in the bud, but when he finds out Aidan is behind it all, he realises that he's in way over his head once again.

"Mick just wants everything to get back to normal," continues our snoop. "If he could work out how to get rid of Aidan, then he'd eagerly take that option – though the gangster seems to be ahead of him at every turn."

Sure enough, Mick soon receives a very menacing message from Aidan, warning him to back off or face the consequences. What can Mick do if he wants to keep his reputation and all of his fingers?

"Mick decides that his only choice is to face up to his tormentor," explains our spy. "He doesn't relish the idea of meeting up with Aidan directly, but he knows that he's been backed into a corner. Aidan, on the other hand, doesn't fear Mick in the slightest. He eats men like Mick for breakfast! So Mick's foolish gesture only results in Aidan getting angrier,

Underneath his Doctor Who style exterior lies a calculating villain

Shirley do their best to cover up the dire situation, so as not to worry her further. But there's no pulling the wool over Linda's eyes, and she quickly works out the truth.

"Mick tries to calm Linda down – yet she is so stressed about the threat Aidan poses to her family that she's in no mood to listen," sighs our mole. "She feels enough is enough – someone has to stand up to this bully! But the consequences of taking on someone like Aidan could be catastrophic..."

When he hears what Linda has done, Mick is sent into a blind panic. Could her boldness result in Aidan finally disposing of Mick for good?

IS TIME RUNNING OUT FOR AIDAN?

Since arriving on the Square three months ago, Aidan 'JP' Maguire has made it clear to everyone that he's not a man to be messed with.

While he initially seemed charming and disarming, Aidan's scruffy appearance hides a ruthless streak. And when hard men like Mick, Phil Mitchell or Vincent Hubbard are all reluctant to take him on, you know you're dealing with a vicious customer! That said, has Aidan bitten off more than he can chew?

He's still frustrated at not knowing what happened to his missing money – and is unaware that it's mostly back in the hands of his ex-wife, Ciara. Up till now, he's managed to stay one step ahead of his rivals – but unlikely as it may seem, could Linda be the one to finally bring him down?

and he issues Mick with an ultimatum he can't ignore."

Aidan pressures Mick into accepting a large amount of cash in order to keep quiet about the dodgy dealings on the premises. Feeling there's no alternative, Mick reluctantly goes along with taking Aidan's hush money – before confiding in Shirley over what's happened.

So when Linda makes a surprise visit home, Mick and

MAX-IMUM MAYHEM!

I see the Brannings are giving Max a hard time again this week, as Abi's funeral is planned. I was hoping that the trauma the whole family suffered when they had to switch off her life-support would put an end to Max's punishment. Can't they all just have some time to heal?

VICTIM NO 5?

I wonder if anyone can enlighten me on the whereabouts of Vinny's mother in Corrie? Last year, dastardly Phelan lured Vinny to her retirement home, but there was no sign of Flora. I've been expecting her to turn up again at some point, but she's not been seen or heard since. Could she be another of Phelan's victims?

| Ann, Barrow-in-Furness
That's a thought! Is Phelan's tally up to five and we don't even know it? Or will Vinny's mum pop up, swearing revenge?

intrigued – but knowing them, there will be some twists along the way. Fair play to the show, though. I'm definitely hooked!

| Charlie

I want to see if mystic Myra's future is with Sally – I love them.

Karen was engrossed in the latest issue of Inside Soap

I'M CONFUSED!

Through no fault of my own, I have been obliged to miss a number of EastEnders episodes. Now I'm back, and I find the current plotlines bewildering. The whole Max and Willmott-Brown story has disappeared. I don't know why Mel has returned, or just what is going on with "the money". Most puzzling of all: where's Dot and why's Karen running the launderette so disastrously?

| Neil, Blackpool

Well Neil... erm... um... We think maybe Karen stole some money so Mel could buy the launderette for Dot and Willmott-Brown. Or something like that.

JUMP FOR IT!

I was looking forward to Izzy's return in the Neighbours late-night episode, but what had me really gripped was Tyler and Piper's daring escape attempt. I actually held my breath as they jumped between the two buildings – it was like a Hollywood movie when poor Piper was left hanging

Pete could tell that trouble was brewing hundreds of feet from the ground! It was a thrilling hour of telly.

🗨️ | Sarah

Yes, we love it when the soaps have a literal cliffhanger (well, a building-hanger at least!).

BREAD'S BUTTERED

I can't help but think that Pete from Emmerdale has gone smoothly from having his mum wash and cook for him to having Rhona wash and cook for him. He's got his priorities straight, that one!

🗨️ | Eleanor, Harrogate

I think they both deserve a quiet and ordinary home life for a while!

GOLDEN OLDIES

I do worry about the older characters in Corrie. First Emily went to Peru. We've heard she's back, but now Norris has gone to look after her. Next thing we hear will be that

Rita has gone to look after Norris. Will they all leave one by one? Corrie is famous for its brilliant older characters. Isn't it time they brought in some more great old actors?

🗨️ | Barney

We agree. Some more mature new characters on the cobbles, please!

NO WAY!

I'm heartbroken to hear that Halfway isn't staying in the Square as a regular.

He's the best thing to happen to EastEnders in years!

🗨️ | Chris

Yes! He's been a real breath of fresh air!

ACID ATTACK HORROR

Debbie's plan against Joe went seriously awry when Ross was sprayed with acid – leading to some disturbing, difficult-to-watch scenes. Many readers feel that Emmerdale has gone too far...

I think Emmerdale should be absolutely ashamed of themselves for the acid attack storyline. Yes, I know this terrible form of violence is a very real blight on our country right now, but I don't think a soap should be using it just to spice up a storyline. All it shows is how easy it is to carry out such an attack, and might even put ideas into the heads of any troubled viewers watching, especially children.

It's a terrible risk to go with this story, and I truly pray that Emmerdale don't come to regret it.

🗨️ | David

Soaps are a great way to bring serious subjects to a wider public, especially regarding health matters. But what has happened to Ross isn't 'raising awareness' of acid attacks. You can't protect yourself against something like that.

It's not like a breast cancer storyline that encourages people to be checked out. This story does more to promote acid attacks than help to prevent them.

🗨️ | Gary, Blackpool

It's absolutely terrible what has happened to Ross and I don't enjoy watching it, but I still need to praise actor Michael Parr for his amazing performance as Ross.

🗨️ | Colin, London

One other aspect of this story gave some readers cause for concern...

How can Debbie ever come back from having caused something as horrible as this? I don't think she will ever have my sympathy again.

YOUR TRICKIEST SOAP QUERIES ANSWERED...

Billy was attracted to this woman like a bee to Honey

ENGAGED? VACANT!

I was very confused by EastEnders the other day when Honey referred to Billy as her fiancé. The thing is, she's listed as Honey Mitchell in the credits. So are she and Billy not married?

| Rebecca
Billy Mitchell married Honey Edwards in 2006, which is why she now has his name. The couple split up in 2008, and Honey moved away with their kids. She returned to Walford six years later, and the now-divorced couple reignited their flame. Their engagement party in January 2016 was blighted by a very drunk Phil Mitchell.

“I have the kind of love Kate has, so I know how it feels...”

As star-cross'd lovers Rana and Kate throw caution to the wind, Corrie's Faye Brookes is right behind them...

This storyline is a game changer, and I'm really proud that we're giving people a voice," says Faye Brookes of her character Kate's romance with married Muslim Rana. "We've worked really hard, and I think Coronation Street is doing something historical!"

As Faye joins us to chat about the latest development for the pair, she's well aware of the footprint such an important story could leave on the cobbles. Kate and Rana's relationship has already had consequences for everyone concerned, but as their spark is reignited following an emotional heart-to-heart this week, Faye is as determined as her smitten alter ego that true love must win out...

This is a big week for Kate and Rana! You and Bhavna Limbachia (Rana) have discussed how vital it is that you get their story right – have you felt pressured by that?

Definitely. Although as much as there is a pressure, we're enjoying it. We were worried about the reaction, and that people weren't going to accept the idea of this new relationship – but it's had really positive feedback. The writers

The Gates of Heaven: Faye's real-life partner is star Gareth

No place she'd Rana be: Despite the trouble caused, Kate has fallen hook, line and sinker for her lover love writing for us, and that's really nice. The more Bhavna and I invest, the more positives we're getting out of it.

Has the audience feedback you've received so far surprised you?

It surprised me when everyone turned on Kate after she started going out with Sophie. But I liked that! The fans are choosing sides, and that's great. We've been overwhelmed by the response. We knew it'd be a hard story to tell, and we're so grateful for the support.

Who do you consider part of your own support network?

At work it's my screen family, the Connors. I share a dressing with Kym Marsh [aka Michelle] and Ali King [who plays Carla], and the pair of them are like sisters. They look out for me, and nobody messes with me as I have them in my corner! Shayne Ward [Aidan] is like a real-life brother – he's always the one I turn to if I need someone to talk to. I'm also super-close to my own family, so it's a real perk that I work on their doorstep now. Plus my partner Gareth [Gates] is in Manchester, so I have my best friend and partner around all the time, too. I feel really content.

CONTINUED OVER >

FROM PREVIOUS PAGE

It must be great having Alison King back – but how do you feel about Shayne's impending departure from the show?

I'm devastated about Shayne going! I don't want him to. I know he'll do so well after Corrie, but I can't imagine him not being here. I think it's going to have a detrimental effect on Kate, too. As for Ali, she's just slotted right in again – and I have my sister back! I love her, and she's a joy to work with.

What's the best thing about working with Bhavna and Brooke Vincent, who plays Sophie?

Brooke has natural ability, so I soak that up when I'm with her. And Bhavna and I share the same work

QUEEN for a day!

Here's how Faye would take charge of the cobbles...

"If Kate was queen of Corrie, she'd have Carla Connor by her side – because Carla is the true queen of Weatherfield!" ethic. We bounce new ideas off each other. And as we have to kiss a lot, it's important to be comfortable with her! I can't take that trust for granted.

The agreement Zeedan has with Rana's parents – to continue his marriage to their daughter for at least a year in exchange for them bankrolling his business – has left both husband and wife in the depths of despair. With Rana terrified of being cast out by her family, she's been determined to stay away from Kate, while Kate makes a lame attempt to move on with Sophie. But as Zeedan stirs the pot by suggesting Sophie move in with Kate to cover the rent on Luke's old room this week, it has the opposite effect – only serving to push Kate and Rana closer together...

The spare-room situation gives Kate a wake-up call, doesn't it?

"Sally Webster cracks me up constantly – so she should be Kate's court jester. Sally's thoughts and her way of life would keep Kate entertained at all times!"

"Kate's national anthem would be Roar by Katy Perry! It's a female-empowering song, and this is the year of empowering women. Katy Perry is an icon, too!"

It does. She doesn't think Sophie moving in is a good idea, but doesn't want to hurt her. She knows that her true feelings are for Rana, and realises she needs to come clean...

But it's not just Rana that Kate has to worry about, with Aidan and Carla undergoing kidney transplant surgeries. Is Kate able to take it all in her stride?

No! She just wants Rana by her side. She gets so emotional, as her brother is risking his life for their sister, and it was a coin toss between Aidan and Kate for who would make the donation. She wants to cry on Rana's shoulder.

What do you make of how Kate's dealing with everything?

She's not coping well – she's just on autopilot. So I feel like if she told Rana how she feels, her spark might return and she could be herself again.

And this week, as Rana admits her marriage is now nothing more than a financial arrangement, the girls are forced to confront their feelings for one another...

Yes, they have that love-sickness where you can't function without a person. I have that love, and I relate to it. Kate's never felt like that before, which is why it's so intense. Kate and Rana want to be together no matter what!

How do you see life panning out for Kate and Rana – do you think they can live happily ever after?

I hope so. It would be something new for Coronation Street, so I would like to see them go the distance!

Allison Jones

"Kate would put Phelan in the stocks. He's Kate's landlord, and she knows he's been nasty to others on the Street, so she'd be looking out for her neighbours."

"All Kate's subjects would have to wear similar colours, and black is quite cool. So if everyone was in black, Kate could have her own version with a huge cape and giant tiara – that'd be great!"

AS JIMMY BOWS TO MORE PRESSURE FROM
JOE, NICK MILES
REMINDS US
THAT HIS ALTER EGO HASN'T ALWAYS BEEN A PUSHOVER...

EMMERDALE | ITV MONDAY

Return of THE KING!

The fickle finger of Tate: Joe piles
the pressure on anxious Jimmy

The trouble is, Nicola is making it worse by planning various holidays while Jimmy is trying to back out of the whole thing. Jimmy's main aim in life is to make Nicola happy – he doesn't want to disappoint her."

What neither Jimmy nor Nicola realise, however, is that Joe is using him as a pawn in his dirty dealings, and plans to make Jimmy the fall guy. It's times like these when we wonder whether Jimmy could do with the support of his late family around him – though Nick begs to differ.

"I don't think he misses the old days at all!" laughs the star. "Jimmy feels the loss of his brothers, but I don't think he misses the hell of the times they shared.

I don't think Jimmy misses the hell he shared with his brothers!

Let's be honest, they were a nightmare!

"As for me, I've been down to see Tom [Lister, who played Carl King] strutting his stuff in 42nd Street in the West End – twice in fact," continues Nick. "I miss my on-screen brothers. We were tight. Once that gets taken away from you, you feel a bit at sea. But then suddenly you're surrounded by children on set, and it changes things!"

Of course, the sheer beauty of the Yorkshire countryside has also played its part in keeping Nick hooked after 14 years of playing Jimmy.

"We're usually standing around on set going, 'This isn't bad, is it?', while shivering and helping to keep each other warm," he chuckles. "But since I've been here I've developed a love of birds and raptors, just from watching the red kites above our village. I never really thought of birds before I started working on this show, but driving in early and seeing hares boxing gives you a love for nature."

However, with Jimmy seemingly destined to become a casualty of Joe's wicked scam – and the Grim Reaper no friend of the King family – we have to wonder if a big dramatic plot, as opposed to the smaller comedy stories Nick has come to enjoy over the years, might herald a tragic end for Jimmy?

"A good example was John Middleton's exit," says Nick, referring to the death of Ashley Thomas. "John loved this place, but he had to embrace a story he knew would take him out, which is a hell of a thing to do when you live and breathe a show. So while there's always a worry that day will come, it comes to us all in the end!"

"As far as dramatic plots go, I embrace them. Anyway, I think it's a mistake to underestimate Jimmy. He has a tendency to come out of these things on top..."

Laura-Jayne Tyler

The name Tate is ringing loudly through the Dales again thanks to Joe – but after his clan was dethroned back in 2005, it was the King family who took over as Home Farm's filthy-rich force to be reckoned with.

So as Joe continues to throw his money and his weight around this week, using sole surviving 'Kingsman' Jimmy to do his dirty work, we feel he should be reminded that his minion knows a thing or two about fighting dirty! Has Joe underestimated the bumbling fool we've come to adore – or has Jimmy really gone soft in his old age?

"It depends what you call soft," grins star Nick Miles, as he joins Inside Soap for a natter in between scenes. "Jimmy had a major change in direction some years back, when he was nearly wiped out by the show home collapse [in 2006]. He saw the way the King family was going and realised that it would end in disaster, and he was right! So what Jimmy has done is try to make better and more ethical choices – which you can call 'soft' if you like, but for my money that can sometimes be the more difficult way to go through life."

You can't fault Jimmy for undergoing a complete character transplant after living through the deaths of his father Tom and all three of his brothers! And as Joe's ruthless approach provides Jimmy with a stark reminder of his old life, the shine of working as Home Farm's so-called estate manager is rapidly wearing off...

"He's not enjoying it very much," sighs Nick. "Zak persuades Jimmy that Joe is a very bad man, and he thinks he's probably right – so he's feeling a little uncomfortable.

SUGDEN VS TATE!

The bad boys are at war as Robert takes on Joe...

With all his cash and connections, Joe Tate is operating under the misguided notion that he's unstoppable. Well, Inside Soap has two words for him: Robert Sugden!

With Robert having dedicated a lot of his scheming to seizing control of Home Farm, we had a sneaking suspicion battle lines would be drawn between these two fellas. (Or at the very least that they'd thrash it out for the Inside Soap Best Bad Boy gong!)

So we're excited to hear that we'll witness the birth of their rivalry this week, when Joe has it out with Robert after smoke coming from the scrapyard loses him a client. Robert is not easily intimidated, though, prompting Joe to manipulate Jimmy into finding dirt on his new nemesis. Is the stage set for one of the biggest Dales conflicts yet?

"I'm very protective of Susan. She has every right to be furious!"

JACKIE WOODBURNE JOINS US FOR A CHAT AS SUSAN LEARNS THE REAL REASON IZZY IS BACK...

We've been waiting 11 years for harlot Izzy Hoyland to come blasting back on to Ramsay

Street – and her return has certainly set the cat among the pigeons!

Poor Susan was devastated to come face to face with the woman who wrecked the Kennedys' marriage – but actress Jackie Woodburne (Susan) tells us that she's delighted to have her old screen nemesis back on board for this explosive plot...

"Any story involving Karl, Susan and Isabelle has to be a big one!" chuckles the star, speaking to us from Melbourne. "Here I am referring to Izzy as Isabelle, because that's what Susan always calls her. And I don't want to call her Izzy because I feel very protective of poor Susan!"

And so Jackie should be, since it comes to light this week that Izzy is aiming a huge wrecking ball at Karl and Susan once more...

How did you feel when you found out Izzy was returning?

Oh, I was absolutely thrilled, because we've been trying to get Nat [Bassingthwaighe, who plays Izzy] back ever since she left.

Isabelle is such a great device for the Kennedys, to throw in all that turmoil she does so well. We had a great time, and it was terrific having Nat here.

Susan doesn't seem quite as thrilled to see her old love rival...

Absolutely not! I think just the mention of Isabelle reminds Susan of the worst period of her life. So even though she's solid with Karl and everything's fine, seeing her stir up all those bad memories – and she knows that Izzy creates drama wherever she goes!

Why is Susan certain that Izzy is up to no good again?

Ring-bound to cause trouble: Will Susan forgive hubby Karl's complicity in Izzy's scheme?

For Susan, it doesn't matter what Isabelle is saying – she clearly has an agenda! So even though she's presenting herself as being all innocent and saying she just wants to catch up with people and see Erinsborough again, I don't think Susan would ever take that at face value.

Can you tell us about the folder that Izzy has in her possession?

Well, it's been revealed to Susan that this mystery folder contains information that is quite explosive – and she needs to find out exactly what's going on. She's gleaned hints that something very bad is in the offing, and she's prepared to go above and beyond to get hold of it. So Susan breaks into Isabelle's hotel room and gets her hands on the folder – and that's when this bomb explodes!

It turns out that Izzy's real reason for coming back is that she wants to have another baby with Karl! And as you can imagine, Susan hits the roof...

Susan is a strong woman, but she always forgives Karl!

How does Susan feel when she finds out?

There's so much going on. Susan's primary emotion is disbelief – it's a case of, "Here we go again!". And most of all I think she's appalled that Karl has bought into this crazy scheme and is considering it. So Susan feels betrayed, marginalised and compromised – and I think her anger is totally justified.

Do you ever wonder how much more the Neighbours writers can throw at the Kennedys?

I do, but the thing is that Susan keeps forgiving Karl! She's a strong and opinionated woman, yet she clearly has a weakness where he is concerned. But that only makes her interesting.

Karl's daughter Holly is also back. Would you like to see her live with the Kennedys?

Oh absolutely. We love it when there are lots of people in the house, and it's loud and messy! Susan comes from a big family, so she might have all kinds of nieces and nephews waiting to drop in. There are eight or nine bedrooms along that hallway that viewers never see, so there's plenty of room for all!

Sarah Ellis

Inside Soap caught up with Alan Fletcher, aka Karl, when he was in London recently, and he answered some of our readers' questions in an exclusive video session. Visit www.insidesoap.co.uk to catch our full interview with the star...

If you had the opportunity to join a UK soap, which would you choose?

That's a tough, tough question. I think my answer would have to be Emmerdale, because I love Yorkshire. And the idea of working in that village that's been built just for the show would be thrilling.

Do you think Karl has any more skeletons in his closet?

Karl Kennedy's closet is terribly deep! Only the writers know if there are any more skeletons in there, and that's what's fascinating about the character. One day, I might find out that he's not a doctor at all!

Izzy may have £41million, but how much do you think it would take to lure Karl away from Susan?

I have to say that I don't think any amount of money could tempt Karl away from Susan, but £41million could tempt Karl to do some things he shouldn't do... It's all coming up!

What was it like having Ryan Thomas [formerly Corrie's Jason Grimshaw] join the show?

It was fabulous having Ryan over. In fact, I'm just about to give him a call now, because I'm in London! He immediately slotted into our cast and became best friends with everybody. He's a ripper bloke and a great actor.

Back in BUSINESS!

AS JAMES REDMOND REVISITS HOLLYOAKS, HIS ALTER EGO FINN IS NOT SO HAPPY TO BE HOME...

Rory 'Finn' Finnigan makes an unexpected return to Hollyoaks village this week – and this time it looks as if he's moving back for good, as he sets his sights on building a new business venture. Meanwhile, actor James Redmond – who first starred in the soap way back in 1997 – feels like it's been a grand homecoming as well...

"Out of all the characters I've played during my career, Finn is the closest to me in real life," he shares. "So it's nice to be back. I'm quite a loyal person, and Hollyoaks was my first-ever TV job 20 years ago. I'm very proud to have started here – I hadn't done any acting at all when I got the role of Finn. Also, my dad's from Liverpool, so I have family not far. And I'm a Liverpool Football Club fan, so I'm here a lot anyway!"

Finn arrives back buoyed by the news that his best mate Tony is opening a new restaurant in the village. But his hopes are crushed after he learns Tony has chosen Darren and Luke as business partners.

"It's been great working with all my old mates," explains 46-year-old James. "It's more interesting to play when you have history there. Finn and Luke have history, as have Finn and Tony, and there's also Darren, Cindy... If you've worked with someone before, you find your way in much quicker. I didn't get to work with Gary Lucy [Luke] when I popped back in 2015 – blimey, I don't think we've worked together since 2001. So things like that are lovely. Gary Lucy is exactly 10 years and two days younger than me, you know!"

While it's all smiles on screen, however, could there be a feud brewing between Finn and Tony? Jealous Finn sets up his own catering business with Cindy, whom he hit it off with on his most recent visit.

James can't reveal too much about what's in store, but he does reckon fans will see a different side of the character this time.

"I think Finn has changed," says the star. "He was originally Jack the Lad, never fazed by anything and always in control. He's the classic guy who thinks women are his strength when really they are his weakness. But I think he's wiser and more self-aware now. While I still get to do quite a bit of comedy playing Finn, I also get to play scenes with emotional depth, too."

After his original stint on Hollyoaks, James spent five years starring in Casualty as John 'Abs' Denham. And in the years since, he's added a couple of new strings to his bow away from TV.

"I have a few properties, which are very handy as an actor when you don't have a regular income!" he reveals. "I do stand-up comedy as well. I'm away three nights a week doing gigs around the country."

In recent years we've seen James pop up in Emmerdale and Coronation Street – so can he just not stay away from soap?

"Maybe it's just easier for my agent to get me into a soap," he muses. "Some actors don't want to do them – they pretend they hate them and then years later moan that they always wanted to do Corrie or whatever. I take the roles I get, though!"

In between his other TV roles, James has made a few returns to Hollyoaks – his favourite stint being the Hollyoaks Later series in 2013, which co-starred EastEnders' Danny Dyer. "It was great, but they put it on E4 at 10.30 at night, so no one watched it!" he sighs. However, many younger fans are being introduced to him for the first time, which has caused a bit of a mix-up...

"One of the Hollyoaks fan pages put my pic up and people thought I was playing Finn O'Connor [Diane's stepson who was jailed for raping John Paul McQueen]," laughs James. "He's about 18, and people thought they'd recast the character with me. They were a bit surprised!"

Simon Timblick

I now get to play scenes with emotional depth, too

Finnigan begin again: Finn's homecoming takes a disappointing turn before too long

It's curtains for you: Finn and Tony have been great friends for decades

READ ALL ABOUT IT!

In addition to causing bother with his old mates, Finn's return brings potential trouble for Milo – as he fears that Finn may inadvertently reveal his secret!

After Finn pitches up, he gives Tony a present – a framed newspaper article about Tony's first restaurant venture, Il Gnosh, for him to display at the new premises. However, little does he realise that also in the cutting is a piece about Mr and Mrs Cunningham's death... with a picture of young Milo on there!

Milo has so far managed to keep his secret under wraps, but will it soon be out in the open in black and white?

“Robyn isn’t impressed with Glen’s proposal!”

CASUALTY’S AMANDA HENDERSON TELLS US WHY HER ALTER EGO IS SO RELUCTANT TO SAY “I DO”...

If anyone in Holby deserves a happy ever after, it’s nurse Robyn Miller. So when Glen asks her to marry him this week, we’ll be rooting for her to say yes – even though he did jilt her at the altar the last time they attempted to get hitched!

But with Glen still battling a brain tumour, time could be running out for the pair to make their relationship official. And as we join Casualty star Amanda Henderson for a chat, she advises Robyn to grab happiness with both hands while she still can...

Robyn and Glen appear to be very happy at the moment, but has she completely forgiven him for walking out on her?

She’s forgiven him, but I think there is always going to be that thing at the back of her mind where she thinks, ‘You left me at the altar’. That’s one of the worst things that can happen to a girl! So although he had his reasons and he explained himself, there will be part of her that thinks he’s a bit of a flight risk.

They’re having a bit of a disagreement over Charlotte’s surname this week, aren’t they?

Robyn’s trying to find a new childcare placement for their daughter, and puts her name down as Charlotte Miller. Robyn has struggled to bring up Charlotte as a single mum, and it’s been really tough. So she doesn’t want Glen to just swan back into their lives and for Charlotte to become a Thomas, because it feels like she’s losing a bit of her child.

Part of Robyn will always think of Glen as a flight risk!

So how does she react when Glen asks her to marry him?

She’s automatically on the back foot, because they’ve just been having this conversation about Charlotte’s surname. She thinks he’s only proposing because he wants them both to change their surname to Thomas. Robyn is really proud of who she is – she’s strong and she’s independent, so initially she’s not overly impressed with this proposal!

Would you like to see Robyn and Glen get married and finally achieve their happy ever after?

I would, yes. Isn’t that what everybody wants? But sadly it’s par for the course that it can’t last forever, because Glen still has cancer. It would be nice to see them happy while they can be, though.

What is it like having Owain Arthur, who plays Glen, as your screen partner?

Oh, I can’t stand him, it’s awful! No, he’s lovely. I don’t want to make his head any bigger than it already is, but he’s a super-talented guy, and it’s so easy to work with him. Sometimes you can tell how someone’s going to play a scene because you get to know their acting styles, though with Owain that’s never the case! He’s a fan of not playing the obvious, so what he does always surprises me – and that makes me a better actor.

Name game: Robyn is set on Charlotte being a Miller

We've not seen baby Charlotte on screen recently – are you missing working with her?

We have twins called Skyla and Amelie, and I really miss them when they're not around. Whenever they're on set I just treat them as if they're my own! They've been here since the beginning and they have just turned one, so it's been lovely watching them grow up.

Last time we spoke you were hoping to do a half-marathon in 2018 – are you still working towards that?

I would love to do one, but I haven't booked one in yet as I'm too scared! I've been going to the gym loads, and I have a personal trainer now – it's not so much about losing weight, I just want to get fitter and stronger. It's hard getting up at 5.30 every morning to go to the gym, especially right now when it's so cold. But I feel amazing after I've done it, so I'm trying to just cling on to that feeling!

Musical medics!

Amanda loves singing with co-star Chelsea...

When Amanda's not at the gym, she likes to spend her spare time belting out show tunes – and she and cast mate Chelsea Halfpenny (Alicia) have been teaming up to wow the Cardiff locals with their vocals...

"When I first heard Chelsea singing in her dressing room, I thought she had a really lovely voice," grins Amanda.

"She'd been to a couple of my gigs, then she booked one of her own at a local restaurant and asked if I wanted to do some duets with her. She's the first person I've met whom I really love to sing with.

"We do a whole range of stuff, from show tunes to Ariana Grande and Justin Timberlake," continues the star. "It's really varied, but most of our stuff is acoustic. Hopefully we'll do some more gigs together soon."

PADDY WALLACE

Coronation Street's Jude
...faces your questions!

Mary's beloved boy Jude is a marine biologist by trade – but is actor Paddy set to be all at sea as he dives into answering your probing questions?

“Would you like to have a mum like Mary in real life?”

Well, believe it or not my real mum's name is also Mary – and they're very similar! But yes, I would like a mum like Mary. Her character is mad, yet great – she's a star. My mum and Corrie Mary haven't met yet, so we need to organise that...

“Is it right that you were born in Northern Ireland – and if so, what happened to your accent?”

My family are Irish – my dad is from Belfast, and my aunt, uncle and nan still live over there – but I was born and brought up just outside of Chester. I went to university in Northern Ireland when I was 18, and worked there for a bit after uni, as an actor. I can do the accent for roles if required, though!

“Is it true that you were in Game Of Thrones?”

“What's the cheekiest thing the baby who plays Jude and Angie's son George has done on set?”

He does cry a bit sometimes! He knows he's an actor, so he does a scene when he wants – and when he doesn't, he won't. But that's about as cheeky as it gets! I've worked with kids quite a few times before, but Romeo, who plays

George, is wonderful – he's a brilliant little babba.

“Jude is a marine biologist – is that a subject you're interested in?”

I have to admit, I had no real knowledge of it before I started playing Jude, so I had to do a bit of research for the role. I've learned about warty venus clams recently... It's an interesting world, all right! Blue Planet is one of my favourite programmes, and I love David Attenborough, so that's been a great resource for doing my research.

“We know that Jude used to live in South Africa. Have you ever been there?”

No, I haven't, but I'd love to go! If you fancy sending me on a plane, I'll head over there and do some research, if you like? I do reckon it's important for the character that Jude should go back and visit South Africa...

“Where would you like to visit on your next holiday?”

Playing games: The actor had a role as a Kingsguard in the hit fantasy drama

Father Brown, forgive me:
The star played a murder suspect in the BBC drama

I was just talking about that, actually. I've never been to Australia or New Zealand, and I'd like to see that part of the world – so that should be my next trip, I think. I'm a big fan of the Lord Of The Rings movies, which were filmed in New Zealand, and I'd like to see some of that landscape. And everyone says that Melbourne is a beautiful place, too.

“What’s the best thing about working with Patti Clare, who plays Mary?”

Everything! Patti is wonderful. She's one of the most generous actors I've ever worked with. Everything is easy with Patti – you just couldn't wish for a better person to work with. She was incredible when I first came into the show. Everyone here loves Patti!

“Is it true that you appeared in Game Of Thrones?”

I did! I played a Kingsguard – but blink and you'll miss me. It was an incredible experience. I spent about nine days in Dubrovnik in Croatia, where the show is filmed – and it feels as big as you'd expect, if not bigger! It was amazing just to be a very small part of it. I was working with Dean-Charles Chapman, who played King Tommen.

I had a great costume, too – I was heavily armoured!

“What’s been your favourite TV show to guest star in?”

I did a really nice job on a BBC series called Father Brown – that was great. It has a very nice cast, and I had a fun and interesting storyline. Jude is just about the nicest person

Sweet Mary, mother of Jude:
Paddy's alter ego reunited with his mum back in 2016

“What’s the best thing about Patti Clare [Mary]?”

I've ever played, but I've been a suspected murderer in most other things, and was a prime suspect in Father Brown – I must have that sort of face! My character Tom was the gardener at a convent where two nuns were killed.

“I read an interview with Victoria Ekanoye [Angie] in Inside Soap, and she said that you’re really good at football – is that true?”

I don't know about that – but I used to play semi-professional football.

I played in Northern Ireland while I was at uni there. And I played for a team called Winsford United over here. If I could have played fully pro, I'd have loved playing for Manchester United, as that's my team. Nowadays I play for the Corrie footy team on a Monday night. It's made up of cast and crew – and it's a competitive hour of football!

“We’re about to see various Corrie characters go head-to-head for a charity boxing match. Who would you like to go up against?”

Ha ha! Let's see... How about Jude versus Norris – why not? But Norris would absolutely whoop me. I wouldn't stand a chance. He would be able to cut me down with his tongue!

“Do you ever get confused with the Northern Irish rugby player Paddy Wallace?”

...asks reader Tanya Sullivan from Glasgow

Yes, I used to! People would tweet me and add me as a friend, thinking I was him. My dad once got a call from someone telling him how proud he must be of his son – but it wasn't me! I was all right at playing rugby at school, though.

CLUB classics!

As Mel reopens Walford's premier nightspot, we look back at its greatest hits...

DODGY DEALS!

After being Strokes Wine Bar in the 80s, the venue is named The Cobra Club in 1996 and is the cover for gambling and money-laundering by criminal boss George Palmer. His daughter Annie takes over and rebrands it The Market Cellar.

ARSON!

Mel sets E20 alight to take revenge on husband Steve, after discovering his lies while held captive by Dan Sullivan. But Steve is the one who saves her from the blaze when it all backfires...

RESURRECTION!

Sharon's return to Walford sees the club reopen as Angie's Den – in tribute to her late mum and dad. So imagine her surprise when she walks into the club in 2003 to find dead Den waiting for her!

SPIKED!

2006 sees bad boy Deano spike Stacey's drink with Ecstasy, and try to blame newcomer Bradley Branning. It's a rather unromantic start to Stacey and Bradders' love story!

PREGNANT!

It's a whole new era in 2007 as the R&R opens, with sassy Ronnie and Roxy Mitchell at the helm! All goes well... until Roxy sleeps with Ronnie's boyfriend Jack on the office desk and conceives baby Amy.

FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!

One of our favourite catfights kicks off in 2010 after Billy tries to get lucky with Carol. Bianca gets aggro and confronts him – and soon Janine, Kat and Stacey are all wading in!

BANG, BANG!

Jack is shot by gang member Kylie – who is actually targeting his young nephew, Billie.

JILTED!

Jack jilts Sharon at their 2013 wedding in the club – the fact she is wearing a black wedding dress was surely an omen!

SLAUGHTER!

Reopened as E20 by new local gangster Steve Owen, the club sees trouble come 1999 when Steve is attacked by stalker ex Saskia. He fights back and Saskia suffers death by ashtrey!

FRAMED!

Steve plonks the blame for Saskia's death firmly on likeable-but-clueless lad Matthew Rose. In revenge, he holds Steve captive – leading Steve to believe Matthew is going to kill him.

ARSON (AGAIN!)

On Sam Mitchell's instructions, Billy torches the club, trapping Vicki Fowler inside. And it's yet another gangster, Johnny Allen, who buys the club and renames it Scarlet in 2005.

REVENGE!

The tragic death of Sharon's hubby Dennis Rickman (sniff!) is set in motion, as he beats up Johnny in the club's office – leading Johnny to order Danny Moon to kill him!

CHAINED!

By 2009, Jack owns a share in the club, but nasty Janine wants to get her hands on it. So she spikes his drink, ties him to the radiator and tries to blackmail him over his dodgy dealings.

PREGNANT (AGAIN!)

Heather Trott and Darren Miller are brought together in the toilets, and baby George is conceived! Darren keeps his part in this hidden for many months – if only he'd done the same that fateful night...

Re-open for BUSINESS!

HIGH JINKS!

Ronnie throws Roxy's hen do ahead of her wedding to Alfie, as she takes over R&R again after the baby swap saga.

Recent years have seen the club closed and sold to Grafton Hill – the front for the infamous Weyland & Co – but now Mel and Sharon are determined to bring it back to its glory days. God help them!

One really good habit to get into this year....

CHRIS AND HIS CLAN SUPPORT A GOOD CAUSE...

Weatherfield's Peter Barlow has had many wives over the years, but his real-life alter ego has been with one woman the whole time. Actor Chris Gascoyne and his wife Caroline have been married for 16 years – and the pair were recently snapped on the red carpet at Archie's Footprint Ball with their teenage daughter Belle. The event was organised by Chris' one-time screen partner Kym Marsh (Michelle) to raise money for the Mariposa Trust in honour of her baby son, whom she lost at 23 weeks in 2010 – and Chris wasn't the only Street star who turned out to support his much-loved cast mate...

Gone with the wind!

THE STARS OF THE COBBLES BATTLED THE ELEMENTS...

Carla's been looking worse for wear on the Street as she's awaited a kidney transplant – but Corrie's Alison King cut a stunning figure as she graced the red carpet at Archie's Footprint Ball. Dressed in a glam one-shoulder frock that showed off her gorgeous curves, the Weatherfield beauty looked divine in her dazzling necklace and chic updo. The same couldn't be said for some of Ali's cast mates, though, as they dealt with a gale (no, not that Gail!) on the night. Helen Flanagan (Rosie) looked less 'glam Flan' and more 'flustered Flan' as the wind whipped her locks, while Georgia Taylor (Toyah) had trouble navigating the red carpet with her hair across her face. Once inside the Hilton Manchester Deansgate, however, our favourite stars were back at their best – and looking particularly gorgeous was event maestro Kym Marsh (Michelle), who shared a snap of herself, Alison and Ali's nine-year-old daughter Daisy ahead of the successful night. ## BRIGHT & BEAUTIFUL!

She rules the Carter clan with a fluffy pink rod of iron – and it seems EastEnders' Kellie Bright (Linda) has the same influence over her co-stars! Sharing a snap of her on-screen family engrossed in vegan articles, the actress revealed how her recent trial run in being vegan may have rubbed off on her cast mates. Having taken on 'Veganuary' over the course of the month, Kellie found the challenge invigorating – and it seems screen hubby Danny Dyer (Mick), Linda Henry (Shirley) and Luisa Bradshaw-White (Tina) are now up for the challenge as well...

BE THERE OR BE SQUARE

With Tamzin Outhwaite (Mel) already home and Jessie Wallace (Kat Moon) soon to make a return to the Square, could we be in for more East End comebacks? Pictured with the pair away from Walford were fan faves Samantha Womack (Ronnie) and Laurie Brett (Jane), plus former head honcho Dominic Treadwell-Collins. The gang united to watch ex-EastEnders John Partridge (Christian Clarke) in his one-man show, STRIPPED – and they looked thrilled to be together. Jane out of hiding? Ronnie resurrected? Where there's a will, there's a way!

Tyred OUT!

Most soap stars can relate to their alter egos in one way or another, but Corrie newbie Ryan Clayton clearly doesn't share his character Josh's mechanical prowess. Stuck on the roadside after suffering a flat tyre, Ryan jokingly called on his co-star Alan Halsall (aka Ryan's fellow mechanic Tyrone) for assistance. Work perks and all that!

MATRI-MOANY

SHERRIE HEWSON AND JOHN CHALLIS TELL US WHY JOYCE AND MONTY'S WEDDING DOESN'T QUITE GO WITHOUT A HITCH...

You are cordially invited to join Ms Joyce Temple-Savage and Mr Monty Staines as they celebrate their wedding on Peacock Island, off the coast of Benidorm. Please ensure that you are suitably dressed for an ocean voyage, and for... angry seagulls? That can't be right, can it? Well, as Inside TV chats to stars Sherrie Hewson and John Challis, who play Joyce and Monty, we discover that the filming of the wedding didn't go entirely to plan...

"We had a drone camera to film on the boat," recalls Sherrie. "An enormous great big thing – it came right down in front of us! It's a fascinating thing to see."

"It's quite disturbing, like a giant insect," adds John. "Then it followed us on to the island as well. We were being attacked by the seagulls, who weren't very pleased as we were tramping on their nests."

"And when the drone came up, all the birds rose screaming at it!" shares Sherrie. "Then they took the drone away and all the birds calmed down again!"

So despite a few bird-related setbacks, the cast were able to film the scenes for this year's opening episode – but will there be a happily ever after for the newly-weds? It seems unlikely on this show...

"Joyce is a very strong woman," points out Sherrie. "She's not going to take second-best, and she's not going to take all the crap he doles out – but he knows that. He just always seems to get everything wrong, and she has no forgiving nature!"

"Why would you marry someone like that?" wonders John. "Monty must have something she likes, but I can't imagine what it might be!"

The current run is the 10th series of Benidorm, which makes it a real milestone for the comedy. It has certainly attracted plenty of loyal fans over the years – many of whom head to Benidorm themselves when the show is filming in the hope of meeting the cast. And while the actors tell us they're happy to chat to fans, there are occasions when they can't hang around for long – otherwise the show would never get finished...

"The fans are amazing and lovely and kind – they're the reason why we've been here for 10 years," grins Sherrie. "And when we can, we will spend time with them – but we can't always sign autographs for hundreds of people, because you have to get in the van to go to the next scene!"

Actress Jennifer Kirby picks her dream viewing...

The Crown

I'm a big Netflix person.

I've just finished watching the second series of The Crown. I liked the first series a lot, but the second is even better – the acting is impeccable, and the whole make-up of the show, the sets and costumes, is just really classy.

I've been catching up on things

I missed first time round, so I've just watched both series of Happy Valley.

I've started on Kiri as well, which is really good – as long as Sarah Lancashire's in it, I'm sold! I'd love to work with her, so if they're doing any more Happy Valley, this is me putting out feelers...

I think I was a typical teenage viewer – I liked

Skins, although I never got into The OC, that wasn't for me. I only had four or five channels, so there wasn't the choice that there is now – but I used to watch Neighbours, and I watched Friends on a loop!

Singin' In The Rain*, I think I've watched 50 times.

I love that film, it's incredible. I like horror movies too, any kind of thriller, and I've got into watching documentaries on Netflix. There's one called The Keepers which is not for the faint of heart, but I'd recommend it!

I'm a big fan of Strictly – I've watched every series.

I can't help myself, I watch it avidly. Would I like to take part? I think I'd want to keep it at a nice distance – I'd much rather watch everyone else be brilliant and marvellous, and not ruin the magic...

COLLATERAL | BBC2 MONDAY

WE GET THE SAME FEELING

watching Collateral that we got from the first series of Line Of Duty back in 2012 – that this is a take on crime drama that feels fresh and different, and that it's setting the standard other shows will want to live up to. It's not so much interested in 'whodunnit' as 'why did it happen?', and straddles a bunch of complicated but very compelling storylines as it builds its way towards an answer. And we're enjoying having Oscar-nominee Carey Mulligan back on the telly, playing a former pole-vaulter turned detective – when was the last time you saw one of those?

Off-road detectives:
On location in Robin's old Land Rover

THIS TIME IT'S PERSONAL

CORMORAN STRIKE AND ROBIN ELLACOTT'S LATEST CASE CONTAINS A LINK TO HIS PAST...

There's good and bad news for Strike fans this week: the adaptation of the third book by Robert Galbraith (alias JK Rowling) arrives on our screens – but that means we've run out of books for the time being, so we might be waiting a while for the next sighting of Strike on TV.

This particular mystery begins when a package delivered to Robin at the agency contains a severed leg. We caught up with stars Tom Burke and Holliday Grainger, who play Strike and Robin, to find out more...

How does Robin react to being sent a severed limb?

Holliday It is an impetus for her to be braver than she maybe should be. Some people might crumble if they get that in the post, whereas for Robin it's the opposite – it's this feeling of, 'I can't back down now'. Whatever scares her, she goes full-force into. It almost ignites her bravery.

What's the relationship between Strike and Robin like at this point?

Tom I think they're in a strange little capsule, because her marriage to Matthew is suddenly on the horizon – and in a weird way, the danger of this case creates a little bubble of air between that happening. All the moments they have together in the Land Rover feels like a special space that's about to be invaded by real life. They're stuck in a grim situation, but at the same time it's quite a nice little bubble to be in with each other.

Holliday Her feelings for him are so caught up in her feelings for the job and a sense that she is discovering herself through it. She's becoming who she thought she always could be, and the fact that Strike is the first person who recognises that in her – I think you'd fall for that whether or not there's anything romantic behind it. That's the foundation of real friendships and real love.

BEST IN THE WEST

RORY REID, MATT LeBLANC AND CHRIS HARRIS HAVE GOT THEIR MOTORS RUNNING...

If we had any doubts about whether the latest Top Gear presenting line-up had gelled yet, they are dispensed with after a morning spent chatting to Matt LeBlanc, Chris Harris and Rory Reid. Listening to the trio affectionately but mercilessly mocking each other, we can spot the signs of three people who really enjoy hanging out together.

"The more time we've spent together, we've kind of developed a shorthand," explains Rory. "Everyone knows what I might say, or what Matt or Chris would say, so I can tee something up to get a bit more humour out of Chris, or something I know Matt will use to land a joke."

"It's a good relationship, and I think that translates well on camera," agrees Matt. "When

Tom Holliday is brilliant because it was a real old banger, I wouldn't have known what I was doing if I had been driving. It looked like she was in an automatic, she was doing three-point turns and all that! Holliday My mum has a 1960s Triumph Herald, so I've driven old cars before, and this one had its own technique. But that's good, because it felt like it was mine – I definitely felt like the person on set who knew how to drive it the best!

we're on location we'll all have dinner together, and we'll spend time together between shots, having a laugh, and it's good."

The series begins with a trip to America's Wild West, where the trio test three V8 sports cars in a series of challenges – including trying to run a crate of moonshine to the state line...

"The V8 engine is one of the most important things to happen to America," Chris tells us. "So we went off on an adventure. It's a big and ambitious film. There are many challenges involving guile, speed, rocks – and cheating!"

MASTERCHEF | BBC1 MON, THURS & FRI

VITAL INGREDIENTS

JOHN TORODE AND GREGG WALLACE ARE BACK TO PUT THE NATION'S HOME COOKS TO THE TEST...

We always feel like we learn a lot from watching MasterChef every year, even if we rarely go on to put any of it into practice in the kitchen. And as we quiz judges John Torode and Gregg Wallace about the new series, they tell us it's always an eye-opening experience for them too...

"Every single year you end up with stuff that you've never seen before," reveals John. "We had one guy who came in and made us something he called kahk, and something called muhammara – a Syrian dip, with a Syrian biscuit. There's stuff from all over the place, with incredible flavours and tastes – stuff that's just fantastic."

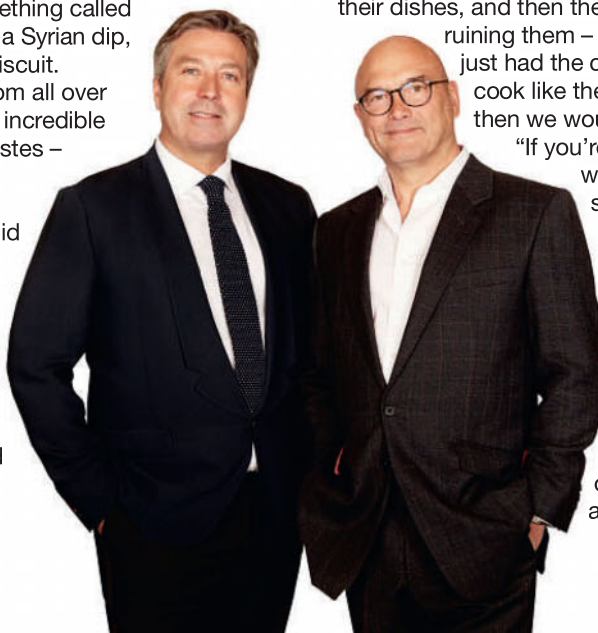

"We had squid with ricotta," adds Gregg. "Flavour-wise it's okay, but the texture is just odd! And we had a wild mushroom and blue cheese risotto with tempura veg – tempura by design is supposed to be crispy, and risottos are wet-ish. Crispy and wet doesn't work!"

The competition begins once again with the market challenge, where the contestants' first assignment is to select from a variety of produce in the studio and cook one dish for John and Gregg to taste.

"One of the most common early mistakes is the contestants don't have confidence in themselves," hints Gregg. "Even though they're good cooks, they try to push up their dishes, and then they're in danger of ruining them – whereas if they just had the confidence to cook like they do at home, then we would like them."

"If you're really good at what you do, your style will be fine throughout the competition," insists John. "But first impressions count, and if you try too hard? It's like walking into a party and going ballistic – you're only going to last about 10 minutes!"

IN THE NAME OF THE FATHER

LENNIE JAMES AND SURANNE JONES
STAR IN A TALE OF REDEMPTION...

Lifelong chancer Nelson 'Nelly' Rowe's luck runs out in shocking fashion in this new drama, when he's arrested for kidnapping Jody, the daughter he hasn't seen in years. Although Nelly protests his innocence, Jody's last three calls were to his phone, which doesn't look good for him at all – so Nelly vows to find his missing daughter and exonerate himself...

"He's an unlikely hero and a difficult and complicated fella who, on the surface, seems very simple," explains Lennie James, who wrote the series and stars as Nelly. "I wanted to write about someone who doesn't just take everybody else by

BARD TO THE BONE

JO JOYNER AND MARK BENTON ARE SLEUTHS IN A NEW DAYTIME DRAMA...

When sobbing bride-to-be Luella Shakespeare (Jo Joyner) turns up in his office, private investigator Frank Hathaway (Mark Benton) agrees to keep tabs on her possibly cheating fiancé Clive.

The case takes a twist, however, when Clive is murdered on their wedding day, and Luella is the prime suspect. She needs Frank to help clear her name, and it soon becomes clear that they make a very effective team...

Jo, you're the client in episode one before joining Frank's agency – so you get to experience both sides...

Jo First episodes are tough, but I love the idea of this one. It's nice to see how these two are thrown together – it's a good way of starting it. Also, it lets me off for why I don't get it all right over the next few episodes.

Mark And the funny thing is that when you get new writers in, suddenly Jo's character becomes a fantastic detective!

surprise, but also takes himself by surprise."

The search for Jody brings Nelly back into contact with Claire (Suranne Jones), the woman he had a fling with 14 years ago, before she moved on to greener pastures.

"Her parents owned the newsagents opposite the estate, and that's how they met," reveals Suranne. "Now

Claire finds herself back in her old world, and via the circumstances

Nelly ends up in, he finds her again. But he doesn't know her and they have to get to know each other again. He drags her back to the world she is trying to escape."

Jo We had to work on that and filter it down! We would have a big chunk where it looked like I knew everything, and I'd go to Mark, "Can you do that? And I'll have this bit where we talk about her dress?" We'd swap lines to make me less knowing sometimes!

Will we see some car chases and action sequences over the course of the series?

Jo There were a few – I love the car chases. We ended up on a pedalo for one of them!

Mark The car chases are funny because Luella won't break the speed limit, so...

Jo And he can't drive because he's banned, so he has no choice but to be my passenger with me going, "It's a 20mph zone!"

The series is set in rural Warwickshire – what were the filming locations like?

Mark They were lovely – we filmed in these places you never get to see normally. Where we were filming was gorgeous – it was a joy to go to work every day.

Jo Even if it's freezing, there's a mist coming up over a field and you're stood in the middle of it going, "This is just great!"

STRIKE BACK: RETRIBUTION | Sky One WEDNESDAY

FINAL FIGHT

ALIN SUMARWATA TELLS US HOW THE STAKES HAVE NEVER BEEN HIGHER FOR SECTION 20...

Normally we'd expect an action show to save its biggest bangs for the finale – but considering how much drama we've seen in the previous nine episodes of Strike Back: Retribution, we're not even sure how that's possible...

"The biggest and hardest scenes tend to be the shortest sentences in the script," chuckles Alin Sumarwata, who plays Gracie Novin. "It will say, 'Novin escapes the building' – but that involves taking out 14 men and jumping through a window! It takes a whole day to shoot those few words."

Section 20 are very much backed into a corner in the final episode, as they make a last-ditch attempt to track down the Atlas – knowing that if they fail, they won't just lose their reputation, they might lose their lives. But our team are never better than when facing the seemingly impossible.

"Gracie, in her usual form, uses the rough but practical way of getting it," teases Alin. "It's very unconventional, yet it works in true Gracie Novin style! It's really hard to talk about it without giving stuff away, but there's a huge stand-off at the end..."

HANNIBAL'S ELEPHANT ARMY... | Channel 4 8PM

Like many stories of legend, the details of Carthaginian general Hannibal's journey across high Alpine passes – with 40,000 men and 37 elephants – has had historians scratching their heads for years, trying to establish exactly how it was carried out. This documentary follows a team of experts as they look for clues deep beneath the soil of the mountain range, and reveal how elephants might be more suited for climbing mountains than we would necessarily assume.

Recipe for success

CLASSIC MARY BERRY | BBC1 8.30PM

Some things never go out of style, and we don't just mean Mary herself – in this new six-part series, Mary will be returning to some old-favourite recipes to show us how they can be made quickly and deliciously.

"For me, ingredients are the star of the show and a classic dish is one that shows them off at their best with maximum flavour and minimum fuss," reveals Mary. "I know classic dishes will always put a smile on the faces of family and friends. Simplicity is the key, and they will always be in my repertoire."

On her menu tonight are some majorly mouthwatering comfort foods including eggs benedict florentine ("Why have one when you can have them both together?") and Mary's slow-cooked lamb shanks.

The home front

ELECTRIC DREAMS: THE FATHER THING | Channel 4 10PM

The series of sci-fi stand-alones returns for four more stories, beginning tonight with a tale of alien encounters starring Greg Kinnear. On a camping trip with his dad, young Charlie Cotrell spots glowing lights falling from the sky. It's explained as a meteor shower, but it happens again the next night – and then Charlie witnesses something horrifying. With no one realising that anything's wrong, it's up to Charlie to protect his mother – and humanity – from the enemy.

CRIMINAL MINDS | Sky Living 9PM

Age concern

DON'T Miss!

100 YEARS YOUNGER IN 21 DAYS | ITV 9PM

Are the ravages of age inevitable, or is it genuinely possible to turn back the clock? That's what eight celebrities are trying to find out in this new four-part series.

Soap legends June Brown, Claire King and Sid Owen join Benidorm star Sherrie Hewson, comedian Roy Walker, Shaun Ryder of Happy Mondays, ex-Goggleboxer Sandra Martin and astrologer Russell Grant on a trip to an experimental 'age reduction clinic' in Sardinia, where a carefully controlled diet and exercise programme – and extreme treatments – await them.

As the title suggests, the group's goal is to knock 100 years off their collective age in just 21 days – and the results of the tests to determine their body, face and brain ages come as a wake-up call for many of them.

Room service

AMAZING HOTELS: LIFE BEYOND THE LOBBY | BBC2 9PM

Monica Galetti and Giles Coren are back for a second series of their exploration of some of the world's most unusual (and in certain cases remote) hotels, where they'll find out how the staff provide an unforgettable service – and Giles and Monica will be expected to roll up their sleeves and have a go at some of the day-to-day tasks. Up first is the Brando Resort in French Polynesia, where the most expensive room goes for an eye-watering £11,000 per night.

Death by design

THE ASSASSINATION OF GIANNI VERSACE... | BBC2 9PM

After The People V OJ Simpson became must-see TV (and won a BAFTA for Best International Programme), expectations are extremely high for this second instalment in the American Crime Story franchise.

It gets off to a gorgeous start, too, as you'd expect from a story centred around a famous fashion designer – the visuals are stunning and the entire pre-title sequence in particular is a feast for the eyes.

But it's not really Versace's story: it's about his killer, Andrew Cunanan (a stand-out turn from Glee's Darren Criss). Cunanan is a chameleon whose ability to fit in anywhere is downright chilling. "Every time I feel like I'm getting close to you, you say you're someone else," a pal says, and it's clear he can't be trusted...

Teddy's trial

THE SUPERVET | Channel 4 8PM

First through the door for the latest series of Noel Fitzpatrick's pioneering surgeries is four-month-old Jackhuahua (and wow, did we ever spend a long time trying to confirm how to spell that) Teddy, who has been referred to Noel after getting attacked by another dog in the park. A CT scan reveals that Teddy's back is broken, leaving Noel with no option but to operate on him immediately, but his owners face an anxious wait to see if Teddy will walk again.

GREY'S ANATOMY | Sky Living 9PM

Creative control

CIVILISATIONS | BBC2 9PM

Well, you definitely can't accuse this new documentary series of being too narrow in scope. Over the course of nine episodes, Simon Schama, Mary Beard and David Olusoga will be examining humanity's urge to create (and sometimes to destroy), spanning 31 countries and over 500 works of art in the process.

Simon sets out the stall tonight by considering just how far back our creative tendencies can be traced. One example is a 77,000-year-old piece of red ochre with a diamond pattern scratched into it – which is the oldest known evidence of deliberate decoration.

Looking at the evolution of this instinct through cave paintings, Simon reasons that the human race can't resist trying to leave its mark on the world, with whatever materials are available at the time...

Late expectations

THE CRUISE: VOYAGE TO ALASKA | ITV 8.30PM

The Star Princess sets sail for the 49th state in this three-part series – or at least it will do, if it can ever get out of the Port of Vancouver. Not only is food and beverage manager Janice facing a crisis when galley supplies go missing, but one late-arriving passenger threatens to delay the ship's departure. The voyage does eventually get under way, though, and shore excursions agent Timothy has to quickly get to grips with a new batch of completely unfamiliar outings.

SCANDAL | Sky Living 10PM

Strap yourself in for the last half of Scandal's final season, which is set to include a crossover with How To Get Away With Murder – but don't get too excited as that won't be for a few weeks yet.

First, we must pick things up from the midseason cliffhanger where it seemed as though Papa Pope shot Quinn, and tonight a guilt-stricken Olivia and associates are coming to terms with the loss of their friend – but is Quinn really gone for good?

ARROW | Sky One 8PM

When we last checked in with Team Arrow, there were some serious divisions in the ranks. That shows no sign of abating as we rejoin them tonight, and it leaves Oliver exposed when Cayden James launches his latest attack.

THE ORVILLE | Fox 9PM

The sci-fi comedy drama reaches the end of its first season tonight, as Grayson leads an investigation into a seemingly primitive planet. Time moves much faster there, and her visit leads to Grayson being worshipped as a god.

THE YORKSHIRE STEAM RAILWAY: ALL ABOARD | Channel 5 8PM

Running for 18 miles, the North Yorkshire Moors Railway is one of the longest steam railways in England – and keeping it running smoothly is a mammoth task for the devoted staff and volunteers that we'll be following in this brand-new series.

The railway needs to bring in around £7m a year to ensure its continued existence – as manager Chris puts it, "The gap between success and failure is always very, very fine."

Hoping to attract lots of attention for the start of the summer season, Chris has hired the famous steam engine Royal Scot to run during opening week at a cost of £2000 per day – but it's a risk as they won't know if she'll fit their line until the engine arrives from London and they can take her on a gauging run...

REQUIEM | BBC1 9PM

The chiller-thriller returns after a week's break, and there's still lots to enjoy for anyone who didn't succumb to temptation and watch the rest of the series on iPlayer. Meanwhile, Aron awaits an update on Rose's condition, and Graves notices something about the discovery of Ewan's body that gives her pause for thought.

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

Come on, EastEnders... You didn't bring back Masood just to make samosas. I mean, we all like samosas, but that's pretty much what he was doing last time his plots dried up. Don't waste him!

We couldn't help but admire Tiff's shameless flirting with Hunter. Those eyebrows don't mess about.

We are totally on board with Hollyoaks' crazy flash-forward tarot prediction storyline. We adore this stuff!

We love that Carla's potential last act was to be Daniel and Sinead's Fairy Sexmother. If her op fails, she's going straight to Heaven.

Spoiler alert! Phelan has six weeks to drain that lake where he dumped the bodies. So: clear your diaries for the week commencing 26 March, people, as that's when this shiz gets real!

As Aaron proved a natural with baby Seb, and Robert wowed him (and us) with his homemade ravioli, the timing has never felt more perfect for a Robron reunion. The hopeless romantics among us did a little skip down the road when they almost kissed. Bring on that Vegas wedding, boys – and don't forget to send us, and all your devoted fans, an invitation!

If this was a real fitness DVD, we'd buy it.

Eva does look five months pregnant in Corrie, but no one has noticed. Do they assume she's just been enjoying her food? It shows how polite her friends are for not commenting!

Bob was doing a fine job of sweeping his fling under the carpet before Harriet poked her nose in. She got involved, and in a trice Bob was halfway down the M6 and declaring his love for Laurel!

We wouldn't be surprised if John Middleton was still under contract with Emmerdale, considering the number of episodes he's appeared in since Ashley died. Nice work if you can get it!

It was thoughtful of Halfway to stage a Valentine's surprise for Whitney on the roof of the Vic. Where one of her friends recently fell to their death. And they say romance is dead!

Cain is forever chasing after the women in his life to prevent them from revealing their terrible secrets. Think of the calories he must burn!
